

Colus stimpsoni. It measures 102 mm. It is in fair to good condition for a species that seems to acquire damage in it's lifetime. There is overall wear to the shell, with injury repair scars and nicks along the lip. It was collected, crabbed, from a lobster trap in Maine.

1 $, Sep 2019

