

Anyone familiar with this species will know that it is plagued by unsightly growth scars and often with significant lip damage. This specimen, however, is very large and in extraordinary condition for this species. This Conus sculletti Marsh, 1962 F+++ , 45.5 mm, from eastern Australia is a superb example of this rarely offered cone.

14 $, Oct 2018

