

This giant Florida horse conch measures just over 16" long and measures 20" around the shoulder. It's HUGE! The lip has some natural chips. The spire tip and the aperture are good. There are very FEW worm holes (worm holes are VERY common with shells this large). The siphonal canal tip has some natural chips. The operculum is also included with this shell! Please view photos carefully and let me know if you might need some more pictures.

Triplofusus giganteus is the NEW scientific name for this shell.
